We must make the most of the times when luck is on our side and do everything to help it, just as it is helping us.

The best way to know who we are
is often to find out how others see us.

My temple is the park, the sky, the water in the lake and the stream that feeds it.
My people are those who share my ideas and not those I'm bound to
by bonds of blood.
My ritual is being with those people and celebrating everything around me.

Sometimes an unimportant incident is capable of turning everything beautiful into a moment of anxiety. We insist on seeing the mote in the eye and forget about the mountains, the fields and the olive groves.

Defeat exists,
 but not suffering.
 A true warrior knows that when he loses a battle he is improving the skill with which he wields a sword.
 He will be able to fight more skillfully next time.
